

1. Formality and Register

This section focuses on how your relationship with the listener/reader changes the language you use.

- Levels of Formality:
 - Formal: Used for professional, distant relationships or academic settings. (e.g., imminent instead of soon).
 - Semi-Formal: A balance of professional and friendly, common in office environments.
 - Informal: Used with friends and family.
 - Slang: Very casual, playful, or "trendy" language used within specific social groups.
- Rules for Formal English:
 - Vocabulary: Choose precise words (e.g., increased instead of went up).
 - Avoid Phrasal Verbs: (e.g., use extinguish instead of put out).
 - Avoid Contractions: Use has not instead of hasn't.
 - Avoid Idioms & Shortened Words: Keep language literal and full-length.

2. Collocations (Word Partnerships)

Collocations are words that naturally "fit together" to sound native.

- Types of Collocations:
 - Fixed: Cannot be changed (e.g., by the way, to and fro).
 - Strong: Words that almost always go together; changing them sounds "unnatural" (e.g., commit a crime NOT do a crime; make a mistake NOT do a mistake).
 - Weak: Words that can combine with many others (e.g., big can go with car, house, problem).
- Grammar Patterns:
 - Adverb + Adjective: remarkably fat, extremely significant.
 - Noun + Noun: traffic jam, slice of cake.
 - Verb + Noun: make a decision, take a break.
- The "Do" vs. "Make" Rule:
 - Do: Used for actions, work, or chores (e.g., do a favor, do your best).
 - Make: Used when creating, building, or producing something (e.g., make money, make a mess).
